Subject: Question

Hi Dianne,

Have a question about my ~~great~~, great grandfather, Rev. Wendel Wasnich. I have this bit of information and it says: Richland Co., OH. Rev. Wendel Wasnich Ministers' License to perform marriages, Nov. 1844 by Common Pleas Court, a regular ordained Minister of the German Reformed Church. License presented to Defiance Co., Feb. 16, 1853. Would this document be available?

Family says: He attended the Seminary at Heidelberg in Germany. Immigrated to America in 1834. Until between 1850 & 1851 he moved to Williams Co., OH from Richland Co., OH. Any suggestions? Thanks.

mong, Donutt, Burke, Palmer, Willibee and others. David Singer, Jr., then about thirteen years old, carried water for the men to drink. It was a very warm day, and, while the work was rapidly progressing, a severe hail storm swept over, driving the men into the schoolhouse near there for shelter. George Donutt was one of the most prominent members ever in this house. He was a minister, and, while preaching or praying, had a peculiar habit of gesticulating with one hand, and grasping his ear with the other. He would change hands frequently, apparently to give fluency to his tongue and precision to his thoughts, and, it is even asserted that, when he wished to say something unusually impressive, he would stop gesticulating, and clasp both ears with his hands, and then his genius of scorching sinners was most brilliant and phenomenal. The hewed-log church was used until about 1864 or 1865, when the small frame church, one mile north of Edon, was built. Wonderful meetings and revivals were had in this old house. Judge Bowersox taught singing school there. Three or four years ago, a Dunkard society, which had been organized a few years before, purchased the church, and yet own it. The remnants of the Methodist class meet at Edon to worship. The Methodist Episcopal Church at Edon was built four years ago, and cost about $3,500. The class is in prosperous condition. The German Methodist Church, in the northwest corner of the township, was erected about twenty years ago, and cost about $2,000. This class was formed about twenty-five years ago, and was really an offshoot of the Singer class, re-enforced by citizens in the northwestern part. The class was unable to build a church until as stated. It met in schoolhouses; but is now in a fairly prosperous condition in the church. The German Reformers, in the northwestern part, organized a class about thirty years ago in the Tomus Schoolhouse. Thirteen years ago, a small church was built, the cost being about $900. Among the members were Gerhart, Boisier, Coleberger, Miller, Rapp, Myers, Stoneberger and Weigel. Rev. Wendel Wasnick attended the class for about twenty-five years. The new church was built three years ago, under the ministration of Rev. John Ruhl. The class now numbers about twenty. The Disciple class at Edon was organized about 1856, in the residence of John Luke, with about the following members: George Kintner and wife, A. Sheline and wife, John Luke and wife, Silas Luke and wife, Sirenus Palmer and others. Their church, which cost $1,500, was built some fourteen years ago. At that time, the membership was about fifty. Sunday school was started then, and has been conducted ever since. Elder M. M. Gleason conducted a revival four years ago, at which time about twenty-five new members joined the class. The present membership is about fifty. St. Paul's German Lutheran Church was erected in 1872, and

Shinn History — 1905

WENDEL E. WASNICH has the distinction of being one of the representative farmers of the township and county in which he was born and reared and in which he is held in high regard by all who know him. He was born on the old homestead farm, in Jefferson township, Williams county, O., on the 12th of January, 1865, and is a son of John and Margaret (Rempp) Wasnich, the former of whom was born in Richland county and the latter in Wayne county, O., and both came to Williams county when young, having been married here. John Wasnich was the son of Wendel Wasnich, who was born in Germany, from whence he came to America when a young man, settling in Richland county, O., where he remained until 1850, and then came to Williams county and settled in Jefferson township, where he secured eighty acres of land, which he reclaimed from the virgin forest, eventually selling the property and purchasing another farm in the same township. He passed the closing years of his life in the homes of his children, and his death occurred in August, 1891, while his wife died in 1879. John Wasnich learned the trade of a carpenter, to which he devoted more or less attention for many years, and he lived on the homestead now owned by his son, Wendel E., up to the time of his death, which occurred in August, 1891, while his cherished and devoted wife was summoned into eternal rest in March, 1879. Both were members of the German Reformed church, and in politics he was a stalwart Democrat, having held various public offices of a local nature. This worthy couple became the parents of three children: Wendel E., whose name introduces this paragraph; Minnie, the wife of William Bly, of Jefferson township; and Claudia, the wife of Ellsworth Connley, of Jefferson township. Wendel E. Wasnich has lived on the old homestead farm from the time of his birth to the present, and he has found the agricultural industry well worthy of his continuous allegiance, having attained success through his interposition therewith, and he has held the same unqualified confidence and esteem as were enjoyed by his honored father. On the 15th of January, 1888, he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie M. Barr, who was born in Richland county, O., being a daughter of John and Lydia (Bly) Barr, the former of whom was born in Wayne county, O., and the latter in Virginia. Mr. Barr came to Williams county in 1885, and the family settled in Jefferson township, where he became a prosperous and influential farmer. He died in April, 1904, and his wife still lives on the homestead farm. Mr. and Mrs. Wasnich have two children—William W. and Alma M. Mr. Wasnich was educated in the public schools of his home county and is a man of intelligence and forceful individuality, taking a loyal interest in local affairs and being a stanch adherent of the Democratic party. In the spring of 1901 he was elected trustee of Jefferson township, for a term of three years, and he has served three years as a member of the school board of his district and also as a road officer. Both he and his wife are members of the German Reformed church.

Where the John Wasnicks - Nicholas Daso Family and Jacob Eberly Family went t Church.

The Beaver Creek Church

It was a brick Church with a steeple
A bell that called all of the people
To come worship with friend and neighbor
after six days of toil and labor

Summer they came with horse and a buggy
Winter they came with sled and sleigh
Dusters over their laps in the summer
Blankets kept them warm in the winter .

In the summer it was Childrens day
When we practised was it work or play?
We gathered daisies from the fields nearby making garlands and sashes to tie

Garlands of roses , Myrtle and such
(the Myrtle gathered from back of the church)
Bedecked the church as for a great queen
Bouquets of roses and peonies were seen

Tame sweet Williams in the cemetery grew so they were gathered and brought in too
All other bouquets were welcome too and flowers of every type and hue

Do not forget the ice cream social
A large dish of cream and cake for all
No box cakes or commercial ice cream or perhaps it seems just like a dream.

Winter suppers of the "Ladies aid"
A hearty repast and games were played
The ladies busy , the men discussed
Politics, Livestock, Crops and Grain rust.

A new carpet could have been the goal
Wood was burned , so it wasn't coal
It could have been a new organ too or perhaps a church payment was due

In winter it was the Christmas tree
We learned Christmas poems, sang songs with glee and santa always came in the door
With a pack of toys and gifts galore

Never did we forget Christs Birthday
That his crib was a manger of hay
That the shepherds came and wise men brought precious gifts for the Christ child they sought

We were glad when our poems were spoken
Always to God they were a token
Of great hope , Faith , Happiness and love in the kind loving Father above

From the windows you never could look;
Like stories of jewels in a book
Topez, Ruby, Emerald, Sapphire
and Amethyst glass could you inspire

A Biblical Painting on the wall
It was there to be enjoyed by all as the organ pealed out the Choir sang
The audience joined and the walls rang

Papa sat to the left , Mamma sat to the righ now in those days this was proper quite and milady in church her hat must wear
as she sat , her head bowed in prayer

later the autos "ole Dobbins " place took at the hitching rail just take a look
The kerosine lamps must surely go
Electricity has began to flow,

Then enough funds could be raised no more so the Beaver Creek Church closed its door
another good Church had met its fate
some Churches had to consolidate

All that remains is the corner stone and a graveyard standing there alone with gravestones of Ancestors long gone who thought their labor had been well done

CENTENARIAN KNOWN FOR APPLE DOLLS
Blade, The (Toledo, OH) - Saturday, December 14, 2002
Author: Blade
Alma Faye Shambarger [1899-2002], who was known for making apple dolls and speaking at area churches and schools, died Wednesday of complications from bronchitis at Harborside Healthcare in Bryan. She was 103.
Mrs. Shambarger graduated from West Unity High School in 1916 and married Galen Shambarger a year later. He died in 1971. The couple lived in Detroit for five years, then moved to Chicago. They lived there until 1963, when Mr. Shambarger retired and they returned to West Unity.

Mrs. Shambarger worked part time for 26 years as a beauty counselor for Vanda Cosmetics in Chicago. She visited people's homes to give makeovers and teach women about skin care. "She was kind of ahead of her time with the skin care," said her grandson, Russell Pritchett. While living in Chicago, she was a member and secretary of the Federated Woman's Club from 1927 to 1942. After returning to West Unity, she spoke at churches and clubs about her experiences in Chicago.

She also gave talks on the history of her ancestors settling in the West Unity area. Her great-grandfather, a preacher, rode on horseback around the settlements in the region. Mrs. Shambarger was featured in a local newspaper in the 1970s for her expertise making apple dolls. The dolls had padded bodies and carved dried apples for heads. "She made the clothes for these dolls out of her parents' and grandparents' clothes," her grandson said. "They looked pretty authentic."

Mrs. Shambarger enjoyed taking train trips to Colorado and the West Coast. Her husband was a railroad detective, so she had access to discount train passes. She belonged to West Unity United Methodist Church and the Jefferson Township Garden Club. Mrs. Shambarger was a staunch Democrat who was vocal about her political views, her grandson said.Surviving are two grandsons, a great-granddaughter, and two great-great-grandsons. A son, Russell, died in 1970. Services will be at 10 a.m. today in the Hollingshead Beck Funeral Home in West Unity. The family requests tributes to Harborside Healthcare in Bryan.

By CHRISTOPHER TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Raising fears of a nuclear crisis on the Korean Peninsula, North Korea said today it will immediately reactivate a plutonium-based nuclear program that it froze under a 1994 deal with the United States.

A North Korean Foreign Ministry spokesman said his country would revive a plutonium-based reactor and resume construction of other nuclear facilities because of the U.S.-led decision last month to suspend annual oil shipments to the energy-starved North. U.S. officials have said the plutonium program was being used to develop nuclear weapons.

The suspension of the oil shipments — a key provision of the 1994 deal — was designed to pressure North Korea to give up a more recent nuclear program based on uranium enrichment. The uranium-based program violated the 1994 deal, known as the Agreed Framework. However, North Korea has said it has the right to develop weapons for self-defense.

"The prevailing situation compelled the (North Korean) government to lift its measure for nuclear freeze ... and immediately resume the operation and construction of its nuclear facilities to generate electricity," KCNA, the North's state-run news agency, quoted the Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying.

"Our country faced an immediate problem in electricity generation because the United States has virtually abandoned its obligations," the spokesman said in comments that were monitored by South Korea's Yonhap news agency.

"Our principled stand is that the nuclear crisis on the Korean Peninsula should be resolved peacefully," the spokesman said. "It's totally up to the United States whether we will freeze our nuclear facilities again."

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Raising fears of a nuclear crisis on the Korean Peninsula, North Korea said today it will immediately reactivate a plutonium-based nuclear program that it froze under a 1994 deal with the United States.

A North Korean Foreign Ministry spokesman said his country would revive a plutonium-based reactor and resume construction of other nuclear facilities because of the U.S.-led decision last month to suspend annual oil shipments to the energy-starved North. U.S. officials have said the plutonium program was being used to develop nuclear weapons.

The suspension of the oil shipments — a key provision of the 1994 deal — was designed to pressure North Korea to give up a more recent nuclear program based on uranium enrichment. The uranium-based program violated the 1994 deal, known as the Agreed Framework. However, North Korea has said it has the right to develop weapons for self-defense.

"The prevailing situation compelled the (North Korean) government to lift its measure for nuclear freeze ... and immediately resume the operation and construction of its nuclear facilities to generate electricity," KCNA, the North's state-run news agency, quoted the Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying.

"Our country faced an immediate problem in electricity generation because the United States has virtually abandoned its obligations," the spokesman said in comments that were monitored by South Korea's Yonhap news agency.

"Our principled stand is that the nuclear crisis on the Korean Peninsula should be resolved peacefully," the spokesman said. "It's totally up to the United States whether we will freeze our nuclear facilities again."

ANSWER: When hands or feet are plunged into cold air or cold water, their blood vessels constrict to conserve body heat. People with Raynaud's react to cold in spades. Blood vessels in their hands or feet clamp down so tightly that blood cannot flow to those areas. Immediately fingers or toes turn white. Blood captured in constricted vessels loses oxygen and then the fingers and toes turn blue. Finally the vessels relax and there's a surge of blood to the hands and feet, turning them bright red. Throbbing pain accompanies the color changes.

They tell me I am growing old.
I have heard them tell it times untold
In language plain and bold.
But I'm not growing old.
This frail shell, in which I dwell,
Is growing old I know quiet well.
But I am not the shell.
What if my hair is turning gray?
Gray hairs are honorable, they say.
And what, if my eyesight is growing dim?
I still can see to follow Him
Who sacrificed His life for me
Upon the cross of Calvary.
Why should I care if "Times old plow"
Has left its furrows on my brow?
Another house not made with hands
Awaits me in the Glory Land.
What though I falter in my walk
And though my tongue refuse to talk
I still can tread the narrow way.
I still can watch and praise and pray.
My hearing may not be so keen
As in the past it may have been,
Still I can hear my Savior say
In softest tones "This is the Way".
The outward man, do what I can
To lengthen out this life's short span
Must parish and return to dust
As every thing in nature must.
The inward man the scriptures say
Is growing stronger day by day
Then how can I be growing old
When safe within my Savior's fold?
I'll long this soul will fly away
And leave this tenement of clay.
This robe of flesh, I'll drop and rise
To seize the everlasting prize.
I'll meet you on the Streets of Gold
And prove that I am not growing old.

Is growing stronger day by day
Then how can I be growing old
When safe within my Savior's fold?
I'll long this soul will fly away
And leave this tenement of clay.
This robe of flesh, I'll drop and rise
To seize the everlasting prize.
I'll meet you on the Streets of Gold
And prove that I am not growing old.

WASNICH

In 1936, William and Nina (McLaughlin) Wasnich bought the home place from Will's parents, Wendel and Jennie (Barr) Wasnich. This farm (south of Kunkle at Co. Rd. M) had been in the Wasnich family since Margaret Rempp (1842-1879), daughter of John Michael and Claudia (Wegman) Rempp, married John Wasnich (1839-1890) in 1864.

William Wasnich has a sister Alma, who married Galen Shambarger, and they had one son, Russell.

William and Nina Wasnich lived on the homestead for 35 years and in 1971 after her husband's death in 1970, Mrs. Wasnich deemed it best to sell the farm and move to West Unity. William and Nina have two children: Clifford (1913-) who married Virginia Suter and they have six children; Olen (1924-) married Marian J. Eberly and they have four children.

Clinton was pushed to the sidelines, vainly protesting his own "relevance." But the congressional Republicans misjudged their mandate and scared the voters, and Clinton began another revival--his fourth or fifth. He outwitted his opponents in the end-of-the-year battle of the budget and escaped blame for government shutdowns.

"Triangulating" his way to the front, he played sensible centrist at home and world statesman in Bosnia. By the end of the Republican primary slugfest in March, he was far ahead of his November opponent, Bob Dole. The next two months were such a rout that Dole decided that Washington was not big enough for both of them--and bolted from his Senate home.

Boom! Israeli voters appeared to reject Clinton's partner in the peace process and in Russia, Boris Yeltsin's future seems clouded. In a Little Rock courtroom, Clinton's Whitewater partners and his successor as governor are convicted of looting a failed savings and loan, despite testimony Clinton gave on their behalf. Now other trials and prosecutions loom. The character issue--Clinton's Achilles' heel--is back big-time.

Meantime, he once again starts overreaching. His lawyer in the Paula Jones case suggests that Clinton may be immunized against immediate prosecution under the terms of a law designed to protect active-duty military personnel. Veterans groups huff indignantly and the lawyer has to back off.

Simultaneously, Clinton's campaign accuses Dole of "quitting" on his Senate responsibilities--a stunningly unseemly choice of words for a man who walked away from his Vietnam-era promise to join the National Guard and from his 1990 campaign promise to Arkansas voters to serve out his four-year term.

Here we go again.

CYCLONE SWEPT!

WILLIAMS COUNTY VISITED BY A DEVASTATING CYCLONE.

Four Persons Killed and a Number Injured.

Kunkle the Scene of Terrible Desolation.

Houses Laid in Ruins, Barns Leveled and the debris strewn to the winds.

Dense Forests Mown Down As If by Magic.

Thousands of People daily on the Scene Witnessing the Wonderful Sight.

Our Reporter visits the Spot and gives an Interesting description of the Storm.

thick and fast around them but the child was unharmed and the mother but slightly injured. The residence of Wm. Mowry was left standing and that is all. Doors and windows and the greater portion of the roof is gone, while immense splinters are sent through the siding and plastering, penetrating the inside wal His bank barn is and nothing but ruin prevails in that vicinity.

Samuel Andre's house narrowly escaped the great destruction, standing but a few rods this side of the storm. His farm however got a small share of it taking off the roof and the siding in places and generally demolishing it. Another one of the provident escapes was that of seven head of horses which stood in the barn not one of which was hurt. It was a close call, however.

Straight onward still in a north easterly direction it went, now raising a little and again assailing the ground with terrible strength, until, upon reaching Kunkle, storm-swept and desolate, ringing with the moans of the dying victims, the intense excitement and the crowds gathered on the fatal ground, the scene is a difficult one to describe. All the houses, fences, trees and obstructions of all kinds in the path of the storm were carried away and nothing is left to mark the spot where they stood, but

THE DIREST DESOLATION.

The building in which Daniel Barrett his wife, and their granddaughters, Martha and Myrta Daso, is so completely demolished that not even a portion of the

MINGLED WITH BLOOD.

She is still living however with the slightest chance of recovery.

The younger sister, Myrta, aged ten, lay almost in the arms of her sister with almost every bone in her body broken, and ground into flesh. Nothing could be done to relieve her suffering and the little one died about ten o'clock the same evening.

Geo. Oxenger, a hired man of the Barrett's, who was in the field plowing saw the storm coming and made for the barn. He succeeded in getting his horses in the barn, and had started for the house when the cyclone struck him, and witnesses say that he was lifted from the ground and whirled into the air at least a hundred feet, together with timbers, fences, trees and other debris scooped up by the wonderful, irresistable current of death and disaster. Oxenger's lifeless body was found about 100 rods from where it was lifted into the air. The body was in a horrible condition, bones protruding from the flesh, and from indications he must have come into contact with many of the flying beams and trees.

Jas. White, another farm hand of the Barrett's, had a

MOST MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

He was in a field working with Oxenger, and with him started for the barn, when his team became unmanageable and broke away from him. They were afterward caught and were but slightly injured. When the team ran away he started for the house but had just reach-grasped the lower part of the fence. The fence was torn from me but I dug my fingers deep in the earth and knew no more for a time. The barn, cow shed, and horses must have passed over me, and when I arose my face was plastered with mud. The last I remember was a dim recollection or realization of seeing the house swept from its foundation and thrown into atoms over the place."

Just across the road from the Barrett residence stood a log and frame structure occupied by Charles Moore and wife, a young couple but a short time married. The forepart of the structure remains standing, every log in its place, but the roof has departed for an unknown land, and the back part of the frame is gone to the foundation. Not a piece of crockery a carpet, a bed-quilt, or any other article of bedding or clothing which was in the house was left, but a few could be found decorating the forest a half mile or so farther in the COURSE OF THE STORM.

As destiny would have it, it was in the back part of the house where the young man and his wife took refuge, and while the last they can remember they were together, holding the door shut, they were picked up far apart, she having been thrown in a little swamp several rods from the house and he in a pile of debris in another direction. A new barn is completely gone, the heavy timbers thrown for acres around, and a light shed close by is scarcely touched. Moore had tied his team to a post near the barn and uge in their cellar. One half of their house was left standing almost untouched. Miss Jennie Greek who was teaching in that district and boarding there was in the portion left standing and sustained slight injuries. Farther on west Mr. and Mrs. Oliver [illegible] stood in their back door and saw all their barns, other buildings and windmill carried

UP INTO THE AIR,

A house containing some pet rabbits rabbits within six feet of where they stood went with the rest, while hardly a breeze touched them. Two or more of the farm houses, a saw mill, and a number of barns are reported carried away, but no other persons are hurt. The path of the storm can be easily followed its entire course by the roofless barns, decapitated windmills and fallen forests.

The whirling cloud seemed to go very slowly in its forward course and gave many people a good chance to get out of its way who would otherwise have been killed. It is estimated that it took at least 15 minutes to go its last mile, the mile which dealt filling the air with flying debris, in which were fragments of human flesh, horses, cattle, furniture, trees, farming implements, etc., all propelled by a most wonderful, irresistable current of ruin and disaster. The course it took seemed to be somewhat zig-zag, and rolled from left to right, as well as upward on its onward course. It visited the cemetery south of Moore's house, leaving there the Astronomers tell us that the sun has passed through terrible convulsions during the past week and that the disasters of wind and water are but the results of these fiery throes culminating upon the earth. Be that as it may, a few more such visitations would almost obliterate Williams County. The intense, sickening heat of Thursday, May 17th., 1894, seemed to impress many with the dread of a terrible something! About 5 P. M. the clouds seemed to be centering west and in dense blackness with ominous streaks of light moved easterly. The were manifest on the farm of John Lantz where the funnel-shaped cloud dipped down and struck the ground, plowing an immense furrow through the cornfield and then on through the heavy timber, tearing and rending trees and bushes like a giant playing with straws.

THE HUGE DESTROYER

scattered fences and orchards till it reached the house on the Old Hazen farm which it carried off as completely as if it were but a mere speck on the surface of the earth. The tenants of the house were fortunately away from home, else there would have been greater damage done than was. On it came plowing its way through huge timbers, leaving a wide stretch of desolation and ruin in its path, until it reached Basswood Corners, four miles south of town, where it done some lively work. It first struck Geo. Mercer's house, lifted it from its foundation and hurled it into pieces, the ruins scattering over the site of the house, and the road. Furniture was torn into atoms and the scene was a hard looking one. It unroofed Sam'l. Barclay's house, leveled his large bank barn to the ground, burying three horses in the MIDST OF THE DEBRIS.

One was instantly killed, but the other two were got out alive and almost unhurt. Mr. Barclay's property is completely gone and it is hard for the old couple as they were yet in debt on their place. The sympathy of the people should take an active form in their case and endeavor to help them out of their present difficulties. Mrs. Mercer, upon hearing the terrible roar of falling timbers, ran out the east door of their house and with her little child in her arms, threw herself flat on the ground. The debris flew foundation is left. The first found remnants of the house were at least 100 rods from where it stood. Here began scattering timbers and further on can be seen larger portions of the building and about 40 yards from where it stood lies the roof, almost intact, together with portions of the frame work.

Mrs. Barrett, who was horribly mangled, was carried by the cyclone over a quarter of a mile and dropped in the S. cemetery. Her dismembered limbs were found about 100 yards further on. There was very little left of the woman's body that resembled the form of a human being. Her breast and abdomen were rent in two, and her entrails, heart, and lungs were through three forty-five acre fields. The search for remains continued nearly an hour before flesh half her weight was found. Daniel Barrett was carried about 40 rods from where the cyclone struck him. His hand was torn off at the wrist and scattered to the wind, one leg was beaten into pulp, and he suffered internal injuries. He was still breathing however, when found but died soon afterward without regaining consciousness.

Martha and Myrta Daso, who were in another part of the house, were found near where the house seemed to have gone to pieces. Martha, the eldest, aged 14, was injured only about the head, which was crushed in on the left side, showing a great hole from which the brain oozed.

ed a rail fence near a gate when the storm struck the barn and he fell upon his face grasping the fence with one hand and with the other the gate. The gate was demolished to the very bottom rail and the gate carried hundred of rods, but the prostrate man lay unmoved. A huge apple tree was torn up by the roots and a brick cellar laid flat to the ground within fifteen feet of him, yet he came out with a bruised face and a few scratches. In an interview with our reporter he gave the following experience with the raging elements. He said: "Oxenger and I were plowing in a field about a quarter of a mile from the barn when we saw the storm coming. It looked like a huge tunnel, its irregularly formed upper half revolving rapidly, while the lower half swept the earth

from its mighty arm, leaving a wide path of desolation in its wake, and transforming what was but a moment before a prosperous little group of farm buildings into a scene of devastation and sorrow. It seemed to be so unreliable in its course that we did not know which way to go to escape it. Finally we decided to seek shelter in the barn. Oxenger got to the barn but my team broke away from me and left me free. By this time the storm was so near that it was like the roaring of Niagara and the heat was sickeningly intense. When I saw the barn go up I knew my only salvation would be in throwing myself flat on the ground. I threw myself in a hole and the horses were swept along like straws before the death dealing storm. From one horse the strong new harness was stripped off as neatly as if it had been cut, while parts of it was strewn over the entire field. One horse was buried under a mass of beams from an adjoining corn crib and killed outright, while the other laid about ten rods further on, so badly injured that it was killed to end its sufferings. Oxenger's team, which was put in Barrett's barn escaped with scarcely a scratch. A hog pen containing seven shoats stood in a lane several rods to the north of Barrett's barn. They help add to and all that can be found of pen or pigs is one dead porker which lay stretched directly over the site of the barn. The ground on either side of the storm was covered with featherless fowls, grain, etc., and close to Moore's barn laid a disemboweled cow. A calf was lifted up and carried across the woods, a distance of nearly a mile and dropped, rather dumpy but still alive and likely to be.

Farther on in the course of the storm at the point where the funnel-shaped cloud rose from the ground, the debris seems to be as thick as further back, hence it is presumed that much of the stuff went up in the clouds. Everything for miles back has vanished as if by magic.

Samuel Hollenbaugh and his wife who were in their house about two miles further north escaped death by seeking refmangled remains of Mrs. Barrett, and making sad havoc with the grave stones. People for miles on either side of the storm could hear its roar and climbed on house-tops and other places of eminence to witness the moving avalanche which carried everything before it. To add to the rain fell in torrents. Where at noon stood finely growing fields of wheat now stood fields of water. All wheat and like vegetation is mown close as if by a scythe.

The dead victims of the terrible phenomenon were all buried last Saturday, May 19th., while the wounded are gaining. The Daso girl has regained consciousness and may recover, while Mr. and Mrs. Moore are both doing well. A good deal of sympathy is manifest among the people for the sufferers, and what is better they are offering substantial aid in the shape of "cyclone fund" meetings all over the county.

Thousands have witnessed the scene of disaster since last Thursday, and whispers of wonder and awe at the scene are heard on all sides. It is, indeed, a miracle that many more were not victims of this awful messenger of death and destruction. Williams County never wishes another such an experience.

HELP FOR THE SUFFERERS,

A number of families in this, the worst disaster that ever visited Northern Ohio, have been stripped of everything. Homes, furniture, bedding, clothing, eatables, etc., and believing there are many who feel it would be the spirit of human kindness to help these distressed ones we have concluded to open up a Bureau of Relief for the cyclone sufferers and all sums of money sent to the TRI-STATE ALLIANCE will be placed in the hands of a relief committee and the names of the donors with amount given will be published in the next week's ALLIANCE. Now if you have any real sympathy for these suffering ones respond as the heart wills.

Dear Geneva & Gale,

It was a treat visiting you while I was home. I certainly enjoyed it. Have thought of so many questions that I would like to ask you about the family since I returned. My cousin Anna Buda was here for a week recently and brought the Ohio Historical Society magazine, "Timeline" with her because it had an article on old cars that she thought my brother Al would enjoy. When I looked at the magazine and saw the article about the bugies, I got out the picture of grangpa Wasnich and showed it to her. She could hardly believe that of all the magazines she had she would pick out this very one. I decided to duplicate the article, thought you might enjoy it. Attached is one of the pictures made from the one you have. There was another shot that is a little better but I had hoped that one would be sharp enough that I could have enlarged. The article and the picture need not be returned. I cannot find what I was making notes in that day so I have a question - who is sitting in the grass in front of the buggy? Orpha. I've also made some photocopies of pictures that were in mother's big album and also some duplicates of pictures that I made from pictures that Minnie had. She didn't have names for some of them. If you can identify any of them for me I surely would appreciate it.

We have had beautiful fall weather and the leaves are really spectacular. My nephew Darrell Bayes has been here since last Tues. and just left for Bryan this morning. He did many good things around the house for me and I really appreciate that. Hope you are having as good weather as we are here.

Hope both of you are feeling fine. Take care and God Bless.

Your cousin,

Roena

This is picture of Orpha Wasnich! my dear sister. She was married to Jesse Castor & had 5 sons. All are living near Bryan. Norman, Merlin, Lovell, Dale & Dennis Castor. She died soon after we moved to Napoleon. I miss her so much.

Dear Roena,

I've sure enjoyed your letter & pictures. I wish I could answer all your questions but did the best I could. I'm so glad you looked us up. Please come again.

Love

Geneva Wasnich Salsbury.

She leaves her loving husband
And dearest children, too,
And she is trav'ling homeward
Across the seas of blue.

She leaves her children's children
But she has just gone home.
Yes, she's trav'ling onward
Across the seas of foam.

And one by one we'll follow
To meet her up on high
Across the darkened shore line
In realms beyond the sky.

Survey taker

DEAR ABBY: I'm hoping you will pass this on to your readers. Many of us these days have to work two jobs to make ends meet. In addition to a full-time job, I work a second one in a call center. Yes, I'm one of those dreaded people who call and ask you to do a phone survey.

What I would like to remind everyone is that we are just people on the other end of the line. I have been cursed at and called names you can't print in your column. I have had the phone slammed in my ear. A little courtesy would go a long way.

If you don't want to participate in the survey, that's fine. We understand that. But have the guts to say, "Not in ested" or "No, thank you," and show a little respect. W

when companies make these incessant calls, they are ente

The people you call might be less hostile if they ha been called repeatedly and asked to participate in these surv
after they had refused four, five or six times and had asked to be called again. They might be more polite if they ha registered on a "Do Not Call" list that was ignored.

Dear Roena,

I can't tell you how pleased I was to hear from you. Sending a letter out to an address that is 10 years old could very well yield nothing.

About a year ago my oldest son received an e-mail from a Roland Wassenich in Hamburg, Germany. Roland had seen Stephen's name and e-mail address on an internet address list and wrote to him because his last name was Wassenich. Stephen wrote him back and received some sketchy information from him. Stephen didn't really show a whole lot of interest in this family tree thing. Finally, I asked Stephen for Roland's e-mail address and started communicating with him. I have since found out a lot of family information and have made contact with other Wassenich's in the USA and in Germany.

I have included copies of a couple of the e-mails Roland sent. The first one is an excerpt from a history of the Wassenich's written by Roland's grandfather. The second one is the genealogical tree. Roland translated some key words so that I could follow the line. Roland is now in the process of translating the history. He sends me a little bit each day by e-mail. It's sort of like reading a story in serial form. He asked me to try and put it in better flowing English.

I have a computer program called Family Tree Journal where I enter any information I receive. The program will give me any number of charts and information. I will be glad to send you a printout of the whole family as we now perceive it if you are interested. It starts with Bernhard and goes right down to my newest grandchild, born 1 April, 1995. I have also put in information on Roland's family and on Erik Wassenich's family.

Erik Wassenich lives in Allentown, Pennsylvania. He has a brother who lives in Canada and several other siblings and half siblings who still live in Germany.

When you read the family tree you will find that a Nikolaus Wassenich married Anna Marie Daeges in 1824. My husband's family is descended from that union. Then apparently Nikolaus died after having fathered 2 children, Nikolaus and Wendel. Anna Marie then married the brother of Nikolaus who was named Wendel. (Wendel was a very popular family name back then.) Wendel and Anna Marie had several more children. Roland and Erik are descended from Wendel and Anna Marie.

Assuming your great grandfather Wendel is the one we think he is, he was descended from Johannes and was a brother to our Wendel. It is very confusing and you should have an interesting
